Mentoring - Measuring the Outcome of Special Activity of MBA@IICMR Report:

Event Type : Curricular Activity

Event Title : Mentoring Session - Measuring the Outcome of Special Activity of MBA@IICMR

Date : Thursday, November 28, 2024

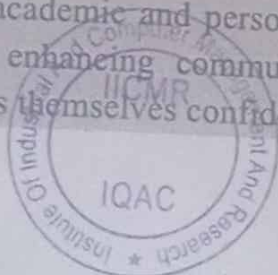

Time : 3:30 PM

Coordinator(s) : Dr. Sarita Samson

Purpose : Skill Based Learning

The purpose of this mentoring session was to review the progress and engagement of mentees in various academic and co-curricular activities, evaluate the learning outcomes of previous initiatives, and guide mentees on essential life skills and academic strategies for holistic development. This session aimed to foster better academic discipline, communication, and presentation skills while addressing the specific challenges mentees face in time management and preparation for the upcoming activities.

Learning Outcome : The mentoring session provided mentees with a comprehensive understanding of the importance of regular attendance, timely submission of examination forms, and active participation in academic and co-curricular activities. Through reflections on the outcomes of the previous Skill Development Program (SDP) and insights from the CEP Life Skills sessions, mentees recognized the value of applying learned concepts to practical scenarios. They gained actionable strategies for effective time management and study techniques, enabling them to balance academic and personal commitments more efficiently. The session also focused on enhancing communication and presentation skills, empowering mentees to express themselves confidently and professionally in various settings.

Description :

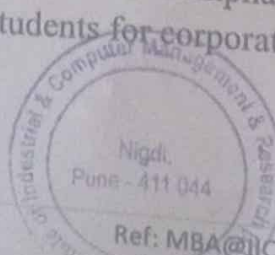

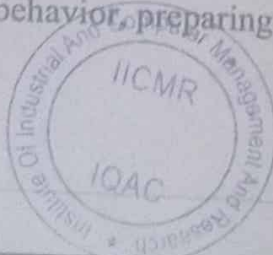

The fourth mentoring session for the MBA Batch 2024-26 focused on measuring and discussing the outcomes of the mentees' participation in the Special Activity of MBA@IICMR. The session started with a review of mentees' regular attendance, underlining its importance for academic and personal growth. Mentors also ensured that all mentees had completed the formalities of examination form submission, addressing any concerns or gaps.

Discussions transitioned to the Skill Development Program (SDP), where mentors assessed the learning outcomes of the previous SDP and mentees' preparedness for the upcoming one. Mentees were encouraged to share their key takeaways, challenges faced, and how they plan to apply these learnings.

The session also highlighted the impact of CEP Sessions-Life Skills Program, where mentors facilitated a conversation around the life skills gained and their practical implications. Further, mentors guided mentees on effective time management and study techniques to enhance academic performance, providing actionable tips on prioritization, scheduling, and focus.

A significant focus was on enhancing communication and presentation skills, with mentors emphasizing their relevance in professional and academic settings. Mentees were given practical advice on improving verbal and non-verbal communication and structuring impactful presentations.

The session concluded with a review of discipline aspects, including adherence to the institute's dress code. Formal attire was emphasized as a key component of professional behavior, preparing students for corporate life.
